

JACK HILLS IRON ORE MINE WESTERN AUSTRALIA'S MID-WEST REGION

COMMUNITY NEWS

JUNE UPDATE

Students from the Mullewa District High School and Our Lady of Mt Carmel, Mullewa were present at the launch of the “Living with Heavy Haulage” education road show held in Mullewa on Tuesday 19 May. The program will visit towns along Crosslands trucking route from Jack Hills. The initiative is being supported by Crosslands Resources, Mitchells West, Patience Bulk Haulage, Giacci’s and ABI Contractors and is designed to educate school children about road safety.

While in Mullewa, Crosslands Logistics Manager, Peter George met with Deputy Principal, Esmeralda Pang of Mullewa District High School to present the school with their @Heart Community Support cheque. The funds will be used for a ‘Motivating Students’ program which rewards students for ongoing, improved attendance.

“This grant enables us to offer students prizes such as mp3 players to accompany their certificates of improved attendance. These rewards motivate students to attend school which in turn allows them more opportunities to improve and build upon their literacy and numeracy skills,” said Ms Pang.

Crosslands’ Chief Executive Officer, Stuart Hall said the company’s success in developing a burgeoning iron ore export operation within the region was dependant on the support of communities throughout the mid-west.

“Crosslands is proud, in our second @Heart allocation, to be able to assist community organisations established by residents in Mullewa and other mid-west communities including Cue, Geraldton-Greenough, Meekatharra, Mt Magnet and Murchison,” he said.

Crosslands staff, Duncan Trueman and Peter George presented another of the @Heart Community Support cheques to committee members of the Geraldton Farmers’ Market, Marilyn McLeod and President Tom Davies. Funds received were used to purchase a trailer for the popular Saturday markets.
